Cinciala-Sagasser Vows Exchanged

Miss Mary Ann Cinciala, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Cinciala of Grayling, became the bride of Mr. Donald E. Sagasser, son of Mrs. Erma M. Schmeltz and Mr. Elmer E. Sagasser of Saginaw, at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, September 9th, 1961, at St.

Mary's church in Grayling. The Rev. Fr. Joseph Stowski performed the ceremony.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose for her wedding gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle fashioned with wrist-point sleeves and a train-bearing line encrusted with seed pearls and laces on a fitted bodice. Lace-edged tiers of nylon tulle fashioned the full sweeping floor-length skirt. Her crown of pearls and aurora borealis crystals held a silk illusion fingertip veil and she carried an arrangement of white roses and English ivy.

Mrs. Larkin Baker of Newberg, N. Y., sister of the bride, was her matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. William Kellogg of Grayling and Mrs. James Hayes of Saginaw, sister of the bridegroom. Miss Kelly Walker of Midland was flower girl. The attendants all wore gowns of pea satin, with fitted bodices, round necklines and quarter-length sleeves. Set-in cummerbunds of self material set off the semi-full street-length skirts complemented with tiny bows of satin at the back. They wore crowns of im-ported beading adorned with crystals and secured to illusion fabric veils, all in matching shades of blue-violet.

Mr. Sagasser chose his brother-in-law, James J. Hayes of Saginaw, as best man. Seating the guests were Ken Mitchell and Gerald Leach of Saginaw. Groom's attendants were James Champion and Don Gady of Saginaw, nephew of the groom, and his brother, the wedding couple's mothers both wore beige. Mrs. Cinciala with cocoa accessories and Mrs. Schmeltz with dark brown. Both wore yellow baby rat corsages. The bride's grandmothers, Mrs. Stanley Gatzka and Mrs. Carl Cinciala of Bay City, wore navy blue with pink baby rose corsages.

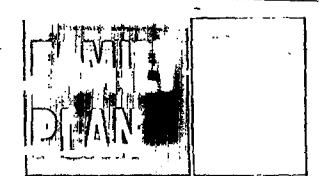

A reception for one hundred twenty-five guests was held at St. Mary's Hall immediately following the ceremony, and another for three hundred guests at the V. F. W. Hall in Carrollton in the evening.

Following a week's honeymoon trip through the New England States, the newlyweds will be making their home in Saginaw. Guests from Midland, Saginaw, Bay City, New York State and Grayling attended the wedding and receptions.

On Friday evening, September 8th, Mr. and Mrs. Cinciala were hosts at a rehearsal dinner for twenty-seven at their Lake Margrethe home.

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor:

The controversy being witnessed with respect to the need to keep intact the service of the passenger trains on the New York Central Railroad through the voice expressed by several and possibly many of the average citizens to the effect that such trains are a part of a progressive economy, has now come to a full realization of a need not to be taken too lightly, reference being made of course to those single diesel units making runs from Bay City to Mackinaw and return on daily schedules.

The Railroad in question is serving a vast area from the standpoint of heavy full-train freight service which can not be dispensed with, and the cluttering of our highways with excessive multi-ton trucking will have to be reckoned with at an earlier period than is presently anticipated, and with that situation in view the maintaining of the entire roadbed and its accompanying steel rails is a foregone conclusion, so that an additional one or two small passenger trains may be operated without charging to such operation that well-known subject termed depreciation, obsolescence and the like.

All business institutions are well aware that some one or two products offered the public are not always profitable ones, in fact, at times are known to be operated at a loss or offered for sale at a corresponding loss, yet the public need is great, hence their use or sale continued.

Adding to the foregoing the Railroad referred to does not utilize some form of low-cost advertising in order to advise the public of its schedules of service or changes in such schedules, the low-cost advertising being not only newspapers, both dailies and weeklies, but the use of radio, television and the like.

The Railroad further does not emphasize some of the advantages of its rail service in order to encourage greater public use, but at the same time it is also incumbent upon the cities and towns themselves being served to lend a hand in added patronage if they desire to witness a continuation of the rail service that is already theirs for a relatively small amount of co-operation.

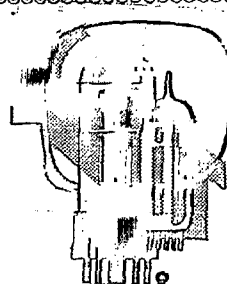

Automobiles, airplanes and other related forms of transportation have not yet proven themselves as always being the most convenient and by no means the safest either. The properly scheduled rail service has something to offer in the way of convenience, safety and the like, it is in a class of its own and should be maintained for its share of modern transportation.

Fred J. Campau
Pineconing

Note: The foregoing has been written at the request of a number of people interested in keeping secure all railroad facilities. The above is also materials or information very familiar to the writer who has assisted quite frequently in conducting surveys and making reports on other types of public utilities, surveys and reports pertaining to wildlife, reforestation, natural resources and the like, and has for some time been a member of the Michigan Engineering Society, Michigan Rate-Payers Association, and National Association of Senior Citizens.

Maybe They Don't Hate Us! . . .

The Saturday Evening Post recently devoted an editorial to the tremendous increase in air travel between this country and Europe. A mere 21 people made the trip in 1938 while 625,583 made it last year! Nowadays, the person with a two-week vacation can spend practically all of it abroad.

The Post then touched on the wider implications of this trend: "As more and more people begin to take advantage of the new travel opportunities, the impact of our changing vacation habits is having interesting effects on the American way of life. Already better acquaintance with other countries has helped stimulate interest in the teaching of foreign languages in public schools, created a greater taste for foreign news, books, furniture, sports cars, wine, and so on.

"Conceivably, also, the greater number of Americans abroad could produce more interest by foreigners in us. If, as reported, we are hated abroad, citizens of the lands we visit will have better opportunities to decide why they hate us. They might even conclude that they don't hate us at all."

In any event, anything that contributes in any way to closer relationships between peoples, with the better understanding of problems and attitudes that must result, serves all humanity. Juan Trippe of Pan-American has preached that thought for years.

New York — Important changes have been taking place in Crawford County with respect to the number of people in each income bracket.

Latest reports show that there has been a general movement up Crawford County Avalanche Thursday, September 21, 1961 ward. Many of the families who were in the $4,000 to $7,000 category a few years ago have stepped into the next higher group. In turn, their former positions have been taken by families who had been at the $2,500 to $4,000 level.

That has been the pattern all along the line. As a result, there are now fewer families in the low brackets and more in the higher brackets than there have been at any time. The gain in consumer buying power that this represents will be reflected, eventually, in greater local business activity. Its full effect has not yet been felt, due to the recent recession.

The breakdown into income brackets covers communities in every section of the country. It was prepared and copyrighted by Sales Management, based on 1960 cash earnings.

It shows that, in Crawford County, no less than 48.8 percent of all households had net incomes, after taxes, of at least $4,000 a year, as against 41.0 percent in 1958.

The increase, which amounted to 7.8 percent, was more than the 5.3 percent recorded in the United States as a whole—and the East North Central States 4.8 percent.

The degree in which the overall earnings of a community become distributed among its population is an index of the well-being of the majority of the people. It reveals whether most of the money is going to a small group at the top, with the rest getting very little, or whether there is a more uniform division. In Crawford County, according to the figures, the 48.8 percent of the households with incomes of $4,000 or over receive 70.2 percent of the total income.

The households that are in the $7,000 to $10,000 bracket comprise 9.5 percent of the total. They account for 18.1 percent of all income.

Those with cash incomes of $2,500 to $4,000 constitute 30.4 percent of the households. They get 22.6 percent of the income.

The increasing number of families who are adjusting to the middle-income brackets or better indicates a general improvement in living standards, according to the economists.

Name 1962 Michigan Week Area Chairman

Mr. T. Chalmers Curtis of Petoskey, Chairman of the Board of the First National Bank of Petoskey, will serve as the 1962 Michigan Week regional chairman for the counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, Cheboygan, Crawford and Saginaw.

His appointment was announced today by Edwin O. George, Detroit vice president of the Detroit Edison company, and general chairman for the ninth annual state observance to be held next May 20-26.

Michigan Is Recreation

Facilities for recreation are a factor in the location of expansion of industry, the Industrial Promotion Committee of the Michigan Press Association and the Michigan Economic Development Department point out.

This close connection between industry and recreation is stressed in an advertisement which appears today in the Crawford County Avalanche.

Industrial plant location specialists explain that companies are cognizant of the fact that workers who have facilities for recreation and relaxation generally are better workers. Michigan's excellent recreational facilities are given serious consideration when plant sites in this State are considered as possible locations for new industries, they say.

Michigan is outstanding in local, county, State and national parks. There is ample opportunity for picnicking, camping and hiking. With 3,121 miles of shoreline on four of the five Great Lakes, Michigan has hundreds of miles of sandy beaches that are almost unrivaled. The State has 11,037 inland lakes and more than 36,000 miles of streams. No place in Michigan is more than six miles from a stream or a lake and no spot in the State is more than 85 miles from one of the Great Lakes.

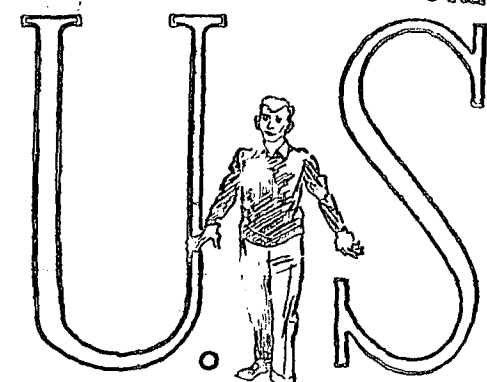

Seasons have no effect on the opportunity for recreation. The only thing that changes is the type. In the Spring there is fishing, in the Fall there is hunting and in Winter there is ice skating, skiing, tobogganing, sleighing with facilities for these winter sports growing continually.

Recreation areas are reached over a constantly-growing network of four-lane, divided, limited access freeways. These freeways serve industry in speeding the flow of goods from factory to market and serve workers and management in providing easy access to recreation areas.

The development of recreational facilities in Michigan is considered by those engaged in industrial development as one of the "tools" of the trade of encouraging industry to locate and expand in this State.

Owens-Faustman Wed September 9th

The marriage of Miss Constance Marie Owens to Pfc. Philip Faustman took place at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, September 9th, at the Free Methodist church in Grayling, with the Rev. Charles Allen officiating. Pink and white gladioli and assorted mums formed the decorations. Mrs. Robert Constance is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Owens of Grayling, and Philip the son of Mrs. John Duffy of Grayling and Mr. Phil Faustman of Kalamazoo.

For her wedding, the bride wore a white satin street-length gown. The bodice featured a sequin-trimmed scoop neck and long tapered sleeves. Four satin roses decorated the skirt back. A rhinestone crown held her shoulder-length veil. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and red roses.

Attending the bride was Miss Susan Lucksted as maid of honor. Her costume was a black brocade sheath dress with black accessories and elbow-length black gloves. With it she wore a white mums corsage.

Conrad Owens, twin brother of the bride, served as best man. Gerald Owens acted as usher.

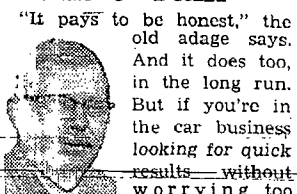

The bride's mother was gowned in black tulle with a white chrysanthemum corsage. The groom's mother wore red with a white mums corsage.

A reception for the newlyweds was held immediately following the wedding at the Moose Lodge. Following this the young couple left for several days' honeymoon in the north. A powder blue sheath dress with white accessories was the bride's choice for the honeymoon. The couple are now making their home at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, where the bridegroom has been stationed.

The new Mrs. Faustman graduated from Grayling High School in 1960, and her husband in 1959. He has been with the U. S. Army since December of 1959.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding and reception included Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ahman of Saginaw, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Martin of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. LaBrash of Detroit, Corp. Albert Johnson of Selfridge Field, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lovely and son Jim of Auburn, Miss Pauline Duffy, Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Meyers, Mrs. Chester Trojanowicz, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Reed, and Don Vandenberg, all of Bay City, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Faustman and daughter Miss Lydia of Kalamazoo.

The Art Of Double Talk

"It pays to be honest," the old adage says. And it does too, in the long run. But if you're in the car business looking for quick results without worrying too much about the future, it can be tempting to indulge in a little double talk.

Take price, for instance. It is a normal human reaction for all of us to want to pay the lowest price. Providing two given products are identical, the lowest price signifies the greatest value. That, naturally, is what we want for our hard earned money.

Realizing that a low price attracts prospective buyers, a dealer can take a worn-out car and advertise it at a "bargain" price. But, of course, it isn't a bargain. If he then tries to switch the buyer to a better car at a much higher price, it is almost certain that it isn't a bargain either.

The dealer with the switcheroo technique has entered on a policy of trying to "take" the public for as much as he can and he is not about to suddenly reform. If that angle doesn't work, he can advertise a car at "below cost" that he really doesn't have at all. Or "new" cars that the fine print describes as "demonstrators." They may not have been new when the dealer bought them and have been driven thousands of miles with the speedometer disconnected.

A reputable dealer has the cars he advertises. If he wants to keep his reputation — as we do — he recommends them so they will render their owners reliable service. The irony is that his advertised prices may seem higher than his unethical competition. Really, the only thing higher is the value the customer receives.
